

Shay Siddik – Teacher of Science (NQT)

Shay graduated with a Biomedical Science degree from the University of East London and continued to study his PGCE at the University of East London. Having been an active youth member working with local sports clubs in the East End of London, Shay has decided to combine his passion for science and working with the youth, to step into teaching. Shay aspires to empower young minds through the development of their scientific knowledge and looks forward to teaching the scientists of tomorrow.
