

Noshin Anjum - Academic Mentor

Noshin continues to be a loyal student of English, even after completing compulsory education, as you would find her promoting a piece of literature from time to time. Although she is a qualified teacher of English, she is resuming her post in tutoring and mentoring students that have been affected immensely by the pandemic and require support in order to gain the learning that has been lost. She has been tutoring pre- and post-pandemic and has seen fluctuating levels of progress for some students which she hopes to change to a steady incline.

English is more than literature; it is evident in our everyday speech. Noshin has spent her time in communicating with her tutees the beauty of everyday language and how metaphors are unintentionally used. So, she encourages the utilisation of imagery in conversational speech as she believes that this would play a part in creating an individual that can be discerned from the crowd.
