

Omolola Hundeyin - Teaching Assistant.

Lola studied Insurance and worked in the insurance brokerage industry both in Africa and the UK. She later went on to study Soft Furnishings at the London Metropolitan University; on completion she set up her own business designing and making soft furnishings. To pursue her teaching passion, she embarked on a teacher training programme – PTTLS to enable her to teach post 16; this she did in collaboration with couple of housing associations teaching their unemployed tenants Soft Furnishing and starting up in business. This was a success as it got some of them into self-employment. In 2016 Lola started her Teaching Assistant career and has worked in different boroughs both in primary and secondary schools respectively. She believes every child is unique and has a purpose and her mission is to help them achieve their full potential.
